DIVISION IV · EXPERT BPO

Scale customer operations without scaling fixed overhead.

Flexible support, sales and back-office execution.

The BPO practice provides multichannel customer support, sales assistance, appointment setting and operational back-office capacity. Teams can work with existing CRM, VoIP and helpdesk systems, with scope and service standards agreed before launch.

Service lines and operating standards

Build the coverage model around the interactions, workflows and service levels that matter to your customers.

Customer Support

Live chat, email and multichannel customer assistance supported by structured quality assurance.

Sales Support

Lead qualification, outbound follow-up and sales assistance aligned with the agreed sales process.

Appointment Setting

Prospect outreach and appointment coordination to support a consistent pipeline.

Back-Office Operations

Repeatable administrative workflows, including billing and HR support where in scope.

Operating principles

- Integration into existing CRM, VoIP and helpdesk platforms.
- Defined SLAs and agreed email, chat or call coverage.
- Quality review against agreed CSAT, response and conversion measures.
- Virtual, on-site and hybrid operating models.

Featured performance figures are website-stated indicators, not universal guarantees. Metrics and targets are confirmed in each statement of work.

Three transparent engagement tiers

The published service tiers offer different levels of support, technology and management oversight. Final scope is confirmed during discovery.
